

Gracy Jo Algrim

May 30, 2019

Gracy Jo

You left your paw prints on our hearts forever

2009 ~ 2019

Tribute Wall

AA

“ Her loss was great because her love was incredible! ”

Ashley Algrim - June 03, 2019 at 05:52 PM

AA

“ In November of 2011 I “rescued” Gracy Jo, who had been rescued with her 11 pups from a “foster” home in Arkansas with acres upon acres of dogs in igloos not being properly taken care of. The family that rescued her and her babies waited until they were weaned and adopted out all of her pups but I knew in my heart that I wanted HER. She took exceptional care of Gracy and put some weight on her emaciated nursed out body. When I first picked her up she immediately loved on me but I was worried about Zoey. We had previously had a Doberman pup and she was very rambunctious and scared my tiny girl. Not

Gracy Jo, she was calm, nurturing, and Zoey took right to her. For the past several months Jo Jo has been sleeping in Zoey’s room. Since we made the devastating decision Gracy has actually been sleeping in bed with Zoey. Gracy Jo has been more than a dog to us, she’s been a healer, a comforter, someone who knows when we are sick or sad and is immediately laying her head on our laps. When we lost Jr she slept with me and would curl up next to me while I sobbed and “kissed” my tears away. She’s been thru so much prior to coming to our home and the past 8 years that we’ve had her has been the greatest joy of our lives. We’ve taken her pain away and she’s taken ours. Life without her will never be the same and we are already grieving the loss that we will experience tomorrow when she goes to sleep in our arms and crosses that rainbow 🌈 bridge. She’s been the very best girl and the very best extra girl in our home. She’s my favorite chubby white lady and she’s been my very best friend through so many joys and tragedies. When we brought ivy home, gracy would lay by her cradle or our feet as we held her. Gracy is the epitome of a Momma and her loss will leave paw size imprints on our hearts. Fly high baby girl! I believe that all dogs go to heaven and one day I’ll hold her in my arms again. 8 years of memories and a lifetime of loss. Pray for my family tomorrow as we hold her as her heart stops and ours breaks a little more. We love you Jo Jo and you will forever be the best surprise that I ever brought home. Thank you for your service to us and your endless kisses. 💕

Ashley Algrim - June 03, 2019 at 05:48 PM