

Pudge Wadley

July 27, 2025

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

LS

“ I loved to pet pudge if he lets me and when I go to auntie ems I am going to miss seeing him. Pudge is such a little cutie and I think he loved me

Lily Sue - July 30, 2025 at 01:24 AM

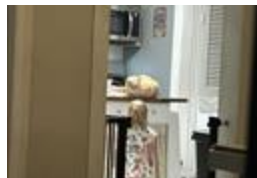

SC

“ Pudge was the prettiest, sweetest, kindest spirited guy. He wasn't as sure about his GamGam as some of his siblings but he enjoyed the pets when he finally let me give them. I know Pudge loved his momma and was so happy she rescued him from the streets. He will be very, very missed. Pudgey, I hope you're laying in the sun with a full belly, getting all the pets. ❤️

Sandra Coleman - July 28, 2025 at 07:25 PM

AW

“ Pudge was the sweetest baby. I am very lucky to have met him and gotten to give him lots of treats. Rue was obsessed with him and always wanted to see him when we came to visit. He will be missed dearly. He was very lucky to have the best mama around. ❤️

Amelia Wyatt - July 28, 2025 at 07:17 PM

EW

“ 1 file added to the tribute wall

Emma Wadley - July 28, 2025 at 06:16 PM

EW

“ Rescuing Pudge was my proudest moment. He came to me as a stray who chose to trust me although he was a little scared. The first time I picked him up, he wrapped his little paws around my neck and hugged me like he just knew I was meant to be his mama. All he ever wanted was love and snuggles and a full belly. He sure got all of it. Although our time together was not nearly long enough, I feel so lucky to have known him and love him. Pudge is my soul cat and I will miss him every single day for the rest of my life. I will love him forever. Pudgey, I hope your belly is always full and your blanket is always warm and cozy wherever your sweet little soul may be.

Emma Wadley - July 28, 2025 at 06:04 PM