“ I know you are not supposed to play favorites but out of the three of you, Sophie, Sadie, and Pootie, you Sadie were my favorite. You were always so affectionate! Any time I went outside you wanted to go. If I went in to the computer you would either stand or sit in the kitchen looking through the glass doors waiting on me to come back into the kitchen. It could be four hours and you would be staring at me the whole time. If I was sitting in the recliner you would come over and jump up and put your paws on the armrest until I would pet you. If I stopped petting you you would jump back up there. When we would go in the back yard you go over to either side of the house and stare like you were wondering what was on the other side of the fence. Well now you have a Birds Eye view! You can see everything and go wherever you want. I hope you like what you see. I will never forget you Sadie. I loved the way you would kick with your back legs. Hopefully we will be reunited some day. I love you Sadie more than words can ever say. You were the perfect pet except when you sometimes pooped and missed the paper. I had to laugh because I could see you standing on the paper thinking ok this is it and then part or all of the poop would be just off the paper. At least you were trying!

“ You know the fuzzy hats the guards wear in London? Sadie's legs looked like that - very regal! She was also very sweet, especially relative to her sisters. She will be missed.

“ Sadie Grace, we miss you all day, everyday. I will especially miss your kicks and being smothered by you when I laid on the floor. Your little mowhawk nose will always make me smile. Love you sweet girl, see you at the Rainbow Bridge! ❤️ 😭

“ To my precious Sadie. A part of my heart went with you when you left me. I loved you more than words can say. I will miss you every day for the rest of my life. Thank you for giving me so much love and joy. My heart is broken. 🌈

She knew how much you loved her mama! And she adored you! I just know she will be waiting at the Rainbow Bridge for us. ❤️
