“ As you all know Sigma was a huge help in me over coming my assault in 2014. She means the world to me and I feel so lost. My sweet cat Sigma a rock and anchor. She was there with me every step of the way. Then, as I over came hardship and pressed charges... she was comforting me during trial times and that 2+ years was so hard but she eased my fear and pain. During that time I got her registered as a Emotional Support Animal- Vest & All. She was a hard working Lil kitty.

3.5 years ago I had my daughter who fell in love with her. And 2 years, my oldest son was born. He has sensory processing disorder & hearing problems... Sigma became his therapy cat. She would calm him down during melt downs, sit on his chest to sooth him at night or during fits to interrupt his overload moments, purr and rub on him when he was afraid and just made him feel grounded in his ovwehlemmed states. She meant alot to him too. They were inseparable.

She meant a ton to me and my kiddo and my family and I love her so much. Now she's getting her wings. I love you Siggy. I feel so lost with out you.
